

Senate Approves Health Care Bill; Awaits Signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to President Johnson today the Social Security-health care bill establishing broad health protection as a matter of right for all Americans over 65. The Senate passage, by a vote of 69 to 24, completed congressional action on the measure. Its final passage climaxes a fight that began in 1935, with the writing of the original law, to include health care for the elderly benefits under Social Security. The House passed Tuesday, 307 to 116, the compromise version of legislation embodying the greatest single expansion of Social Security ever made. The health-care portion ends a generation of effort in Congress to write such a provision into the Social Security System.

The Senate took up the measure Tuesday but held up the final vote until today so that some absences could be on record. Sponsors said they were certain Johnson would sign the bill this month, probably Thursday or Friday, so that the increases in present Social Security benefits can come in September. The $6.5-billion bill contains new health protection available to all 19 million Americans 65 or over as a matter of right and at small cost.

It also increases all present Social Security checks — for retirees, disabled persons and family survivors — by 7 percent, retroactive to Jan. 1. Checks going to 20 million beneficiaries will be increased.

Everyone is guaranteed an increase of at least $4 a month. An individual who has been receiving the present retirement minimum, $40, will get $44. One who has been receiving the maximum, $127, will have his check increased to $135.90. Couples in which the wife also is of retirement age get 50 per cent above the single person's figure in each case.

The pay-roll tax is increased to help pay for the benefit expansion.

Power Lines Damaged in Wind Storm

Considerable damage was reported Wednesday from a wind and rain storm across Magic Valley Tuesday afternoon. Trees were uprooted and the power was off for two hours in the Jerome area. Damage was estimated at $100 to Idaho Power lines.

Power Co. officials said freak winds which blew the power lines together caused the break where lines blown together burned out.

Three different circuits were affected. The power went off at 3:30 p.m. and remained off until 3:30 p.m. at Jerome. Trees were uprooted at Shoshone and a brief, strong wind at Heyburn overturned outbuildings on several farms near the town. At the George Eastman west of Rupert, both the clothesline as well as clothes were whipped away by the wind. A tree fell on the roof of the Warren Kays house north of Jerome, knocking several holes in the roof, but causing no structural damage.

Trees also were uprooted on several farms northwest of Jerome. It was reported 19 of an inch of rain fell there in 17 minutes.

Proposal on Nuclear Arms To Arise Soon

GENEVA (UPI) — The West is to work out within the next few days a proposal on how to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons, informed sources said today.

There was no indication of such an agreement from the Committee of the 17-nation disarmament conference, however. The conference resumed Tuesday.

The Soviet Union immediately took the stand that the withdrawal of foreign troops from territories was of greater importance than a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear arms.

Soviet delegate Semion Karpikov said the war in Vietnam underscored the urgency of getting foreign troops.

His speech further dampened hopes for quick progress.

Negro Red Leader, 67, Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — American Negro Communist leader Pettis Perry, 67, has died after a long illness.

Action on Voting Bill Bogged Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts of Senate-House conferees to reach agreement on a voting rights bill and hasten final congressional action have bogged down in dispute over two key issues.

"The next move is up to the House," Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said, after reporting House conferees had balked at what he called "a very acceptable compromise" between the versions of the bill passed by the Senate and House.

No date for another meeting of the conference committee was set after a fifth session Tuesday broke up in disagreement.

Vietnamese Police Want U. S. Action

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — The Vietnamese police want the United States to take over the case of Robert Kimball, a U.S. aid employee held for the slaying of his American boss and a Vietnamese woman, a highly placed informant said today.

It has been presumed that a Vietnamese court would try Kimball for homicide, but some reports indicate the case has embarrassed the Vietnamese police because Kimball worked with them as a member of the U.S. Police Advisory Mission.

A district police chief announced Monday that Kimball, 36, had signed a statement saying he killed Jack E. Ryan, 44-year-old chief of the U.S. Aid Mission's Public Safety Division, and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Hai, 26, the wife of a Vietnamese Air Force captain.

Kimball surrendered Sunday and has been held by the Vietnamese police.

Technically Kimball has limited diplomatic immunity, but the United States was expected to waive jurisdiction.

The United States and South Viet Nam have no status of forces agreement that could be used as a legal guide in the case.

Mars May Be Dead Planet Like Moon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Times reported today that Mariner 4's best pictures of Mars show the red planet apparently is a dead or similar to the moon.

The newspaper said it learned that the pictures — not yet made public — show craters gouged in the surface of the planet but no evidence of canals.

Some astronomers have theorized that canals exist on Mars.

Director Named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson Wednesday announced the appointment of John W. Chancellor, White House correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co., as the new director of the Voice of America.

Chancellor, 38, will succeed Donald Lummis whose resignation was announced some time ago.

Soviet delegate Semion Karpikov said the war in Vietnam underscored the urgency of getting foreign troops.

His speech further dampened hopes for quick progress.

Weather, Temperatures

MAGIC VALLEY—Mostly sunny and a little warmer today and Thursday. Highs 85 to 90, lows in 50s, except Camas Prairie highs 85 to 90, lows 45 to 50. Outlook for Friday is continued fair and warmer. Temperatures at 8 a.m.: 63 at Jerome, 67 at T.F. Weather Bureau with 66 per cent humidity, 68 at T.F. Entomology Laboratory with 66 per cent humidity, 67 at Rupert, 70 at Buhl, 65 at Fairfield, 61 at Castledale, 71 at Wendell, and 70 at King Hill; at noon, 81 at T.F. Weather Bureau with 41 per cent humidity. Barometer: 30.23. Soil temperatures: At Twin Falls, four-inch 74, eight-inch 72, 28-inch 60 and 36-inch 63; three-inch level: At Buhl, 72; Wendell, 63, and King Hill, 65.

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY

Pressures are rising and the air is becoming more stable today over the district. There should be little if any interruption of sunshine today with no thundershower expected over the major agricultural areas.

Most areas will be a little warmer and winds should be generally less than 15 miles per hour. A few isolated thundershowers are still possible over the mountainous sections north of the Snake River Valley and in eastern parts of the district this afternoon.

Fair and warm weather will continue Thursday and probably Friday, except that more afternoon cloudiness may be developing by Friday. This should be good news to farmers with hay to cut or with grain or peas to harvest.

Yesterday was a little warmer in Magic Valley and eastern sections of Southern Idaho and many places were a little cooler last night. Highs yesterday were mostly in the middle 80s to lower 90s with King Hill reaching 102. Lows last night were mostly in the 50s with a few 60s in western valleys.

Only a few places reported rain in the past 24 hours. Jerome received .20 of an inch in a thunderstorm with strong winds which blew down trees and power lines in that area early yesterday afternoon. Twin Falls measured .05. Gooding, 01 and Aberdeen, .03.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST

High pressure and a weak circulation will predominate over the northern Intermountain Region during the next five days. As a result the weather will be fair except for scattered thunder-shower activity in central and eastern parts of Southern Idaho most likely about the first of next week.

Temperatures Thursday through Monday will average near or slightly above normal in Southwestern Idaho and 2 or 3 degrees below normal in Magic Valley with no large changes expected during the period. Normal maximum and minimum temperatures for this period are Gooding, 83 to 88; Twin Falls, 82 to 53, and Burley, 81 to 54.

LITTLE OR NO PRECIPITATION IS INDICATED FOR THE WESTERN VALLEYS and showers in central and eastern sections will likely produce less than .10 of an inch. Winds should be light most of the time and soil temperatures should continue near present levels averaging in the 70s and low 80s at three- to eight-inch depths.

Prospects are thus very favorable for curing hay, spraying and dusting and for proceeding with all farm operations. All crops should make excellent progress with normal applications of irrigation water. Thundershowers may cause brief interruptions of field work around the first of the week in Magic Valley and Camas Prairie and Southeastern Idaho.

TEMPERATURE AND PRECIPITATION

Weather at 8 a.m. CST. Highest temperature Tuesday, lowest temperature last 12 hours, precipitation for 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. CST.

Utah Missile Site Nears Completion

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP) — A multi-million dollar missile test complex here is 60 per cent complete and expected to begin operations this winter.

Maj. Gen. T. Alan Bennett, Ogden Air Materiel Area commander, said the complex, being constructed by Oakland Construction Co. of Salt Lake City, will test Minuteman missiles.

It will house an instrumented launch silo and launch control center, the general said. However, he said there will be no firings of any kind in the complex.

The 80-foot deep silo will be fitted with an 80-ton lid and will be almost identical to a launch facility at an actual site.

The tests will isolate and correct any engineering deficiencies that might appear during the life of the Minuteman weapon system.

Pig Delay

DOWNINGTON, Pa. (AP)

Traffic on the Pennsylvania Turnpike was delayed during a four-hour period this week when 150 pigs were turned loose. A trailer carrying the pigs overturned. A state trooper, fearing the pigs would trample each other, threw open the trailer doors and the pigs dashed out. More than a dozen men spent the next four hours rounding up the pigs. Nine of the pigs were killed.

Police said Caley's car collided with another at the intersection of Ind. 116 and Ind. 303, 10 miles northwest of Bluffton. Caley's wife and the other driver were injured.

Worth Trying

Twin Falls Probate Judge Zoe Ann Shaub has announced a new policy of imposing work sentences on juvenile offenders, an interesting development that should be followed closely. In announcing the policy, Judge Shaub said she hopes the work will instill good work habits in youngsters. She adds that in those cases where the work involves charity groups, helping those with afflictions will give the youngsters an insight into the problems of others. "Perhaps they can see that they are not the only ones with problems," the judge said.

Realistically, it's probably far too late to instill good work habits in the youngsters, especially those who are in their teens. It would be a good guess the children wouldn't run afoul of the law and wind up in probate court in the first place if they had developed good work habits. It's a parental failing and also a regrettable sign of the times that most children just don't have an opportunity anymore to learn about work of any description. In many cases, they wind up in trouble simply because they "can't find anything to do."

There's another benefit in the work sentences that isn't mentioned by Judge Shaub although she must be well aware of it. Short of sending youngsters to the Youth Training Center at St. Anthony or sentencing them to jail for periods of up to 30 days, there's just not much that will make an impression on youthful offenders. The Youth Training Center is a sort of last resort, a sentence that is reserved for incorrigibles. And jail sentences could be regarded as just short of sentencing youngsters to the St. Anthony institution.

Fines and probation make no impression on youngsters. In most cases, the fines are paid by parents and probation, to the youngster, means he must be exceedingly careful to avoid being picked up during the probationary period.

Work directed by the court is quite another matter. It represents punishment that can be recognized, a penalty that cannot be dismissed with a shrug. Likewise, a parent can't absorb the work penalty like paying a fine because "Junior is really a good boy."

There's another consideration to bear in mind. In some cases, work sentences will be the first opportunity for these youngsters to do something constructive. If their parents have failed to introduce them to work—as many parents have failed these days—and permitted the youngsters to drift along enjoying life and "looking for fun," the children have no idea of constructive effort. In cases where Judge Shaub sentences them to help a charitable organization, for example, some youngsters may have their first taste of doing something good and worth while.

Judge Shaub has urged persons to contact her if they have ideas concerning public projects or places where youngsters could benefit from work sentences. No one should hesitate to pass along an idea. In addition to providing suitable punishment, the work sentence idea could be the first step in providing a youngster with a reason for changing his outlook on life generally. It might be the most important development in years in dealing with juvenile offenders.

LET'S STUDY IT

Creation of an Urban Renewal Commission in Twin Falls could be one of the most significant steps in the community. Everyone has known for years that the downtown business district has been deteriorating. It's not possible to hide vacant and crumbling buildings merely by using their display windows. Sooner or later, citizens are bound to open their eyes, start looking around and wonder what has been happening and why.

So far, there's been considerable talk about changes for the downtown business district, the very heart of the community. But concrete action has been conspicuously by its absence. There's no assurance that anything will result from the Urban Renewal Commission, either.

But the Urban Renewal Commission offers another chance to take a new look at the heart of the community, another opportunity to see if something can be devised to stop deterioration and perhaps reverse the trend.

At this stage, the Urban Renewal Commission is nothing more or less than a committee to study possibilities of changes that would bring new life to the center of Twin Falls, or any other portion of the city that might qualify for renewal efforts. No one should jump to the conclusion the commission is a necessary prelude to a move to grab federal funds.

Likewise, no one should feel the commission is something that's undesirable in itself. The Urban Renewal Commission is a good chance to take a new and long look at Twin Falls to see if anything needs to be corrected, developed or changed. Let's all study the problem together.

WASHINGTON — At the White House the other day, Press Secretary Bill Moyers noted that Arthur Goldberg, who had just been named United Nations ambassador, "has always been interested in international affairs."

"Sure," quipped a newsman, "that's why Kennedy named him to the Supreme Court." Moyers was doing his job, of course, which was to picture Goldberg as a foreign affairs scholar. Perhaps he is, but the quality that makes his appointment a stroke of Johnsonian genius is that Arthur Goldberg is a tough cookie who believes in the UN.

A MINORITY-ORIENTED FIGHTER—Goldberg's toughness, a heritage from his boyhood in a Jewish slum in Chicago, was his chief recommendation to President Johnson. The President believes in the U.N., too—but he has come to realize that the United States needs a U.N. representative who can hit in the clinches. This is not to disparage Adlai Stevenson, bless his noble heart, who did very well at that department after a slow start, but only to emphasize a coming-to-age in the White House in respect to the international peace organization.

More so than in any time in its 20-year history, the U.N. is threatened with a takeover by the Communist nations and their "non-aligned" allies. Whenever they wish, the Soviets can make a majority with these so-called neutrals and run the show. The U.S. and its Free World friends no longer control the votes; indeed, for the first time, America is a member of the U.N. minority.

THREE-FISTED FIGHTER—Other good men were mentioned for the U.N. job: Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, Senator Sparkman of Alabama, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Under Secretary of State Ball. But Goldberg was chosen because he is a tough cookie who comes equipped with brass knuckles and the knowledge that there are times when a well-placed knee is worth a hundred left jabs.

Arthur Goldberg is an intellectual of impeccable credentials, but he was a tough Secretary of Labor who saw his duty as the prevention of costly strikes and waded into labor-management disputes with, as one observer put it, "all three fists flying." Before that, as a brilliant labor lawyer, he won a court ruling that made pensions a collective bargaining item, and helped create the AFL-CIO.

NO FANCY PANTS—He is said to have been unpopular with his colleagues on the Supreme Court, which would be to his credit. Any Supreme Court is a mish-mash of petty protocol and silly conventions designed to protect a phony dignity. Goldberg was reputed to be aggressive and argumentative, a man who seldom troubled to be polite when pursuing a point. He may have been wrong at times, but he was always provocative and he always made the court do some thinking, which was a plus for the citizen.

Arthur Goldberg would be the first to scoff at the poetic justice which finds him, a son of Russian-Jewish parents, assigned to duel the Moscow monolith. He is not a man diverted by such romantic jazz. Nevertheless, the drama is pleasant to contemplate, if only because it gives us a chance to show the world that the old melting pot is still operating.

COFFEE JITTERS

Hey, what's happened to that grand old American institution, the coffee break?

Per capita consumption of coffee has dropped in three years from a bit more than four cups a day to less than three. But, blimey, tea consumption has increased by 17 per cent in 10 years.

Since the United States consumes half the world's coffee exports, the exporting countries are concerned about the downward trend. The International Coffee Organization has decided to spend $5 million in world-wide promotion, with 60 per cent of the sum earmarked for the United States and Canada.

As many coffee-drinking parents have noticed, the younger generation hasn't adopted the coffee-drinking habit as readily as its elders did. But that the youngsters may switch to tea comes as a surprise. Mostly they drink long after they have passed adolescence. This, of course, is what the daily industry, which also is concerned about dropping consumption, is trying to promote.

If the old folks would drink more milk and the young folks more coffee, everyone might be satisfied, provided tea consumption didn't drop. Everyone, that is, except the boss who can expect the breaks to continue whether they're for coffee, milk, tea or pop.—The Oregonian

GOOD IDEA

It seems to us that the drugstore chain which is posting comparative unit prices for the convenience of its customers has several good business propositions going for it. First, customers don't like having to do complicated problems in mental arithmetic in deciding among several brands in several fractional volumes at several fractional prices. So the company should gain in good will.

Second, shopping should become less a chore and more a pleasure, stimulating impulse buying. Less of the customer's time will be taken up in routine buying, so there will be more opportunity for looking around at things that weren't on the list. And finally, when the customer sees plain proof of savings through volume purchases, the store's volume should increase.

The chain in question operates in Ohio, Michigan and West Virginia, but maybe the idea will spread. There is actually no reason for smart merchandisers to wait with hands folded on the truth-in-packaging bill, stalled in Congress, before taking steps of their own to reach its goal.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

WHY DO NATIONS DIE?—One of the most widely read books of all times is "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" written in 1788 by Edward Gibbon. It sets forth five basic reasons why that civilization withered and died. These were:

The undermining of the dignity and sanctity of the home, which is the basis for human society; Higher and higher taxes; the spending of public money for free bread and circuses for the populace.

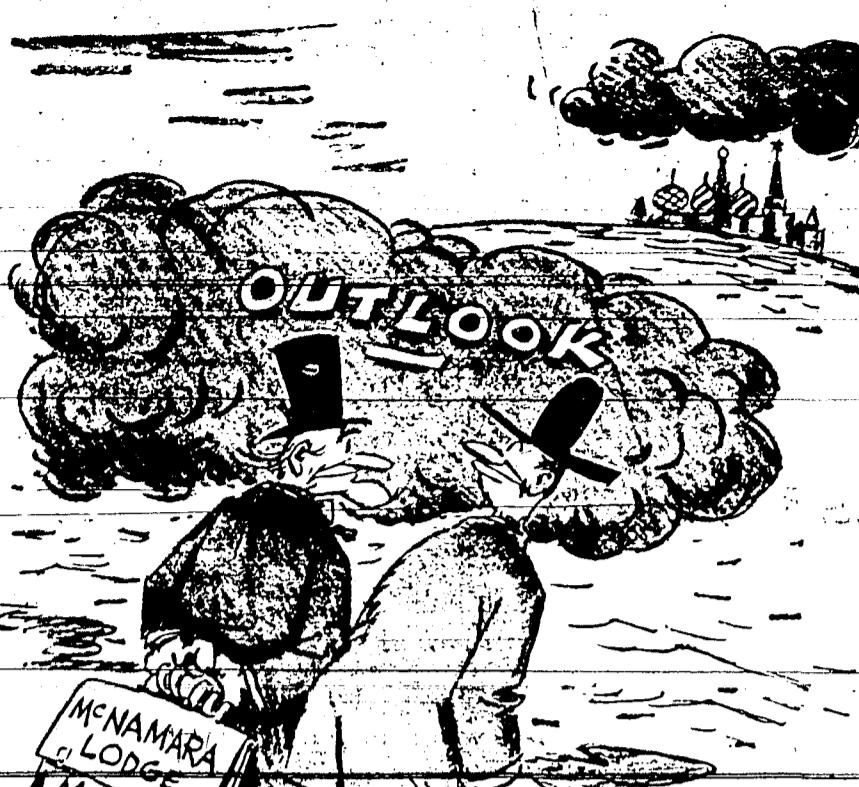

The mad craze for pleasure; sports becoming every year more exciting, more brutal, more immoral.

The building of great armaments when the real enemy was within—the decay of individual responsibility.

The decay of religious faith, fading into mere form, losing touch with life, losing power to guide people.

California Family Tours For Research

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A family on a personal crusade in memory of a tiny heart disease victim was in Salt Lake City today on its way to Washington, D. C.

Eddie Snell's family lost a 17-month-old daughter in 1959 from congenital heart disease. After five years of planning, the family left their Gardena, Calif., home last April to crusade for contributions to finance research on the disease.

"It's our way of trying to help others so they won't have to suffer the loss of a child or loved one like we did," said Snell.

Snell, 44, is drawing attention to the crusade by riding a horse from Los Angeles to Washington, D. C. His wife Yvonne and three sons, Gary 8, Mark 4, and Ronnie 6 months, follow him in a pickup truck with camper.

A professional western singer, Snell earns the family's way by singing in clubs and at rodeos. He's entertaining this week at a club in Murray. He will sing at the Utah State Prison Rodeo this weekend.

Snell stopped in to see Salt Lake City Mayor J. Bracken Lee with letters of recommendation from California Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Nevada Gov. Grant Sawyer. He left with another letter.

Snell is not accepting cash contributions himself but passes out envelopes to be sent directly to the Heart Foundation. He said he has no idea how much money he has raised.

"I'm trying to raise $100,000 between my home town and the White House," he said.

Report Says American Is In Captivity

SAIGON (AP) — An unconfirmed report reached Saigon today that Donald Dawson, the American sailor who came to Viet Nam to trace his missing brother, was seen in Viet Cong captivity early this month.

Dawson, 25, of Astoria, Calif., came to Viet Nam in January after his older brother, Lt. Daniel L. Dawson, a U.S. Army pilot, was shot down in the jungle in November.

Dawson spent several dangerous months trying to trace his brother. Then, finally believing that he was dead, he determined to find the body.

He decided to go into the Viet Cong-controlled D Zone north of Saigon to meet guerrilla leaders who were reported to have said they would take him to his brother's grave.

The Viet Cong demanded that Dawson bring his own interpreter. Colette Emberger, 21, a Vietnamese citizen, agreed to accompany him.

A source close to the Emberger family said today the family had received a report in the past few days that the two were seen being taken through a village in D Zone early in July.

Boycott of Europe's Common Market Concerns U.S., World

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's boycott of meetings of the European Common Market is slowing down developments of deep concern to the United States and the rest of the world, including the Kennedy Round of tariff talks.

De Gaulle is unfriendly to most of these developments.

The other five members of the Common Market are discussing a proposal designed to end his boycott. The plan would settle the financing of farm subsidies in the six-nation area for the next five years, which De Gaulle wants. It would postpone putting the money under control of the European Parliament, which he opposes.

The delegates can go on talking about tariffs on industrial products and about an international grain agreement. But the French representative is no longer sitting on the committee that supervises them.

The French government has been one of the countries that was least enthusiastic for the Kennedy Round aim — to cut tariffs on industrial goods as much as 50 per cent.

The French are very much interested, though, in coming to a world agreement on the grain trade.

With the future of the Common Market uncertain, little can be done about improving its contacts with Britain and other members of the European Free Trade Association.

Roman Princess
Has Champagne
Style Showing

By LOUISE HICKMAN
AP Fashion Writer
ROME (AP) — Princess Marcella Borghese presented her fashion collection for fall and winter at a champagne showing in her Via Condotti salon.

Wearing a silvery knit suit from the collection, the elegant Roman princess greeted her guests at intermission and introduced her cousin, concert conductor Prince Marcantonio Borghese, who had written music for the collection.

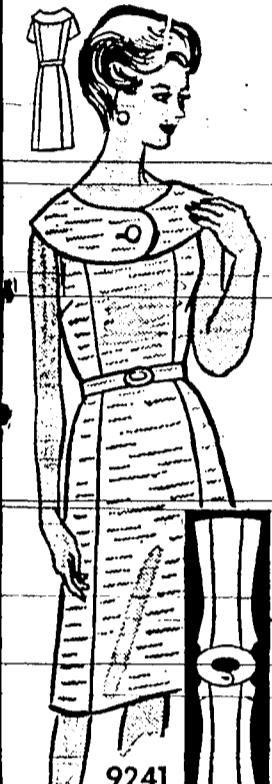

The princess showed long-sleeved and short-sleeved ensembles in heavy cashmere. "Light as sea foam," she called them.

Straight or bias skirts in thick cashmere tweeds and plaids were anchored straight on the hipbone with matching fabric belts. They were worn with tucked-in classic cashmere sweaters.

There were also printed bell-bottom at-home pants in cashmere, worn barefoot with an ankle charm bracelet.

Evening designs were all knits, in crinkly croque surfaces or sleek and shimmering with metallic glitter.

Beauty for the asking

By LAURA CATON, Beauty Consultant
MERLE NORMAN COSMETICS STUDIO

Did you ever have an evening ruined because of a run in your stocking? And wondered why you hadn't tucked an emergency pair in your purse? Then you'll know why I suggest that vacation-bound girls plan ahead in a big way. It's the little things, especially in cosmetics, that make all the difference in the kind of time you have.

Let's pretend, for instance, that you've had a wonderful day at the beach. You've protected yourself with that fabulous tan—more lotion so you're beautifully tan, but not all dried out. Now you're getting ready for a date, and you want to make the big switch from outdoor-gal to glamorous female. What's the abracadabra? First off, run yourself a nice deep tub, fragrant with bath oil, or bubble bath. Stretch out and relax, with a rolled-up towel for a head pillow. Nice? Reach for a perfumed soap bar... and lather away. Beginning to feel pampered and glamorous already, just thinking about it? Good.

Out of the tub, pat yourself dry. Now's the time for a generous all-over application of soothing hand and body lotion, to keep your skin velvety smooth.

Treat your elbows and knees to extra luxury—a light massage with super lube. Of course, you've been using a genuine anti-perspirant regularly (that one I know is appropriately called cease) but just to be extra sure, now's the time for hex, a fabulously efficient deodorant.

A fluff of delicately scented dusting powder is next and/or generous applications of cologne, or that final important touch of perfume.

Incidentally, if you're a creature of many moods, you'll want to have several choices in your perfume wardrobe. Jolly ain is one which appeals to many light-hearted ladies, with tulaire or pikaki saved for more sultry moments. With either one you'll really shed the sneaker image.

Now you're ready for make-up. Or are you? Why not phone me and let me treat you to a free hour of beauty? For free, let me help you on to a great start toward your holiday beauty.

Designer Uses
Short and Long
In Collection

By JORIE LUELOFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Designer

Norman Norell decided that short hemlines and low waistlines would be a winning combination. So he put the two together and presented a fall-winter collection Thursday night that was reminiscent of the 1920's.

The low, low waistline was everywhere—in coats and suit jackets widely belted at the hip-line; in the broad, horizontal slash of pockets placed low on coats; in narrow leather belts that circled jumpers at low hip level.

While a few suit jackets were simply short capes fastened at the throat with two giant buttons, most were long-sleeved, double-breasted affairs with twin rows of huge buttons marching down the front.

The long jackets—some almost three-quarter length—topped skirts that barely skinned the kneecap. Some of the short skirts simply hung straight, while others were an ever-moving flurry of tiny pleats.

Suit blouses and tops of two piece daydresses were narrowly belted in slim strips of black leather or casual ties of matching fabric to emphasize the low, low waist.

For more informal sophistication, Norell created floppy pants—not unlike bell-bottomed trousers topped by double-breasted jackets with full ascots tucked in the V-necklines.

Sequin lit the way to evening wear. A simple jumper style, completely encrusted in black sequins, drew applause.

Norell featured solidly sequined numbers of every shade.

Hats Dominate
Show in Italian
Fashion Review

ROME (AP) — It's all bias with Princess Irene Galitzine's look for fall and winter—bias cuts, bias waists, bias details and even a few pairs of bias-striped stockings.

The clothes she showed in her Rome salon Monday night were contemporary, not futuristic. Galitzine's only concessions to the space age were a few domed helmet caps similar to but smaller than those shown by Pucci in Florence.

The Galitzine look was undarned almost to the point of starkness. But her soft handling of thick gabardines and mate-taungs made it lighter and softer than anything seen in the Italian collections to date.

There were no buttons. Collars just wide enough to fold over ringed the collarbone. Cuffs on round, slender-shouldered kimono sleeves were puffy bands.

Galitzine made skirts soft and swinging but not full. Bias seamings on the bias fabrics were almost the only detail on coats and suit jackets.

Galitzine showed several evening smock dresses, clove at the shoulders and curved over the bosom.

Galitzine's boutique collection included "tuckless" leera swimsuits with fluttery bermudas or long slashed skirts that clung to the hips, in matching prints.

An Oct. 8 wedding is planned.

U. S. Trying To End War Mistreatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is trying to end mistreatment of prisoners of war by both sides in the Vietnamese conflict, a State Department spokesman said.

He commented in response to reporters' questions about news pictures showing South Vietnamese torturing captured Viet Cong guerrillas to get information. The Communist forces reportedly also use similar tactics.

"We are currently engaged in discussions with the South Vietnamese government and with the International Committee of the Red Cross to insure that the principles of the Geneva convention are adhered to by both sides in the Viet Nam conflict," the spokesman said.

Greek Leader Makes Effort For Majority

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Premier George Athanasiadis Novas sparred for time today in an effort to mobilize a majority in Parliament for the vote of confidence his government needs to survive.

So far his chances of winning the vote looked slim.

The new premier, named by King Constantine 13 days ago to replace ousted Premier George Papandreu, had been generally expected to go before Parliament Thursday to ask for the confidence vote. But political sources said he now did not plan to make the request until Friday.

After opening formalities and a statement by the new premier, the 300-member Parliament was expected to recess for the weekend, postponing the confidence vote debate until Monday. The debate could last three or four days.

The fund raising project, which was attended by approximately 300 people, will assist the Kiwanians in financing improvements at the new community park they are building.

Janice Blake, Miss Cassia County contestant sponsored by the Declo Kiwanians, played several piano selections. Clarence Phillips was a guest of the club. The pledge was led by Bob Fugua, with Clifford Sutton giving the invocation.

Stengel Has Successful Operation on Hip; Says He's Still in Some Pain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Casey Stengel, the New York Mets' manager who will be 75 Friday, underwent a successful two-hour operation Tuesday to correct a displaced fracture of his left hip. It left him in "some pain" but "everything went well," according to the operating surgeon, Dr. Peter Lamotte, the Mets' team physician. The operation that began at 7:45 a.m. (EDT) was to patch up the fracture.

Stengel suffered getting out of an automobile early Sunday morning after he and many former members of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants were feted at a party.

A Met spokesman said Casey's first words when he awoke after the operation were: "It hurts."

This was the second time "it hurt" for Casey since the season began. The Mets' skipper earlier fell and broke his right wrist prior to an exhibition game against Army at West Point, N.Y.

Stengel was expected to be hospitalized "about two or three weeks," but the term of convalescence will be up to Stengel, Lamotte explained.

The club physician advised

Stengel's wife, Edna, who arrived Monday night, that Casey was to have no visitors aside from himself for several days.

Wes Westrum, who joined the Met's as a coach last season was named interim manager during Casey's absence at Stengel's request. Warren (Sheriff) Robinson, manager of the Met's Buffalo club in the International League, was called up to assist Westrum as a coach.

"Stengel's surgery involved a hip prosthesis," Lamotte said. "This means a metal ball is placed at the head of the bone where the socket meets the hip joint."

Lamotte said if Stengel had been a younger man, he would have inclined to do a pin-type operation.

"The hip prosthesis, however, will enable Casey to walk earlier," Lamotte explained.

Lamotte phoned Mrs. Stengel at her New York residence soon after the operation and said the first thing she asked was "has he still got all his bones?"

Mrs. Stengel went to the hospital Monday night when her flight arrived from California.

Casey, however, was asleep and she did not want to disturb him. She was back early Tuesday, saying, "I can't let them operate before I see Casey." Stengel held her hand and she kissed him softly on the cheek just before he was wheeled into surgery.

There were stacks of mail in the hospital for Stengel. A good deal of the mail awaiting Casey's attention came from Stengel fans in Japan.

Kansas City Sweeps Two From Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Bert Campaneris rapped four hits, including an inside-the-park home run, as Kansas City trimmed Boston 10-8, and completed a sweep of their doubleheader Tuesday night.

The Athletics won the opener 7-3 and with the double victory moved to within one game of vacating the American League cellar. The Red Sox are in ninth place.

Kansas City gained the sweep despite the hitting of Tony Conigliaro, who clouted two home runs in the first game and cracked a grand slam homer in the nightcap, giving him a season total of 21.

Campaneris triggered a six-run explosion in the first inning of the second game with a single, tripled and scored in the second inning, homered in the third and singled and scored the deciding run on Ed Charles' single in the eighth.

Martin and Defensive Plays Carry Idaho Falls To 3-1 Win Over Cowboys

Defense, keynoted on three double plays and a rare triple play, plus the pitching and hitting of Al Martin carried the Idaho Falls Angels to a 3-1 Pioneer League victory over the Magic Valley Cowboys Tuesday night. Martin and Cowboy Jerry Jackson locked in a tight pitcher's duel until Martin spoiled the thing for the home fans with a seventh-inning triple. Neither of the starters were around at the end but their efforts keynoted one of the rare nights in the rookie league — defensive work.

Idaho Falls turned to its defense to extricate Martin from jams in four different innings, but particularly in the first three when the Cowboys were hitting him hard and seemed

Roberts Placed on Waivers by Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Veteran pitcher Robin Roberts, No. 16 among all-time major league baseball winners, was placed on waivers by the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday at his own request. The move, designed to give Roberts his unconditional release, was taken after the 38-year-old right-hander expressed dissatisfaction at being used as a spot starter and long reliever.

"I have no quarrel at not being used as a starter," Roberts said at a Memorial Stadium news conference prior to Tuesday night's game against the Los Angeles Angels. "I just don't want to participate otherwise."

"I thought it best to sever my ties here now, so I could get a real opportunity to pitch elsewhere next year," Roberts said. "If I continued in my current role, I would assume by the end of the season I would have put in my last year of baseball."

Roberts won his first four decisions of 1965 on complete game efforts, but then went into a seven-game losing streak over a period of nine starts.

In 3½ seasons with Baltimore, Roberts posted a 42-36 record with an earned run average of 3.6. Now in his 18th major league season, he has won 276 and lost 235, with his victories among active pitchers topped only by Warren Spahn's 360.

If Roberts is claimed for the $1 waiver price, he may reject the claiming club and negotiate with any team he pleases.

Twins Gain Split With Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don Mincher's two-run homer sparked Minnesota to a 9-5 second-game victory over Washington Tuesday night after the Senators took the opener 10-7 with the help of Mike Brumley's first two home runs of the season.

Doug Camilli's base-clearing double in the fourth inning gave the Senators a one-run lead in the nightcap, and Dick Nen's run-scoring single made it two in the sixth.

But Earl Battey's second homer of the night cut the lead to one in the seventh inning, and Mincher's 13th homer following Tony Oliva's single in the eighth put the Twins ahead-to-stay.

The Twins had the tying run at the plate in the eighth inning after trading by nine runs. But pitcher Mike McCormick snared Tony Oliva's one-hopper for the inning-ending out.

Indians Led To 7-3 Win By Gonzalez

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pedro Gonzalez drove in three runs ready to blow the game open at anytime. But the lefty settled down in the fourth and got in trouble again only in the seventh. This time reliever Larry Smithson and another double play gave him the victory.

The triple play came in the second inning when Tony Vargas opened with a single and Seth Marty walked. Mike Hutton slapped a grounder to second base, for a routine double play — which Idaho Falls accomplished. But the Cowboys, who won a game earlier in the season with the maneuver, turned to surprise and kept Vargas moving. Idaho Falls first baseman Don Anderson saw the sneak play and flipped to home to complete the triple killing.

The Cowboys tied it with a pair of walks and a Ron Grossmiller hit in the bottom of the ninth and from then on Martin and Jackson hung goose eggs on the scoreboard.

Alou led off the game with a first-pitch homer and knocked in a run in the fifth with a sacrifice fly. Torre homered, leading off the fourth, and doubled home the final Milwaukee run in the ninth.

Alou hit his 17th homer and Torre his 20th off Houston rookie Larry Dierker, who was knocked out in the fifth.

The Braves scored two runs in the eighth off Jim Owens on Torre's single, Denny Menke's double and singles by Frank Bolling and Woody Woodward. Houston scored in the second inning on Walt Bond's single and lined a triple into dead center field and scored the insurance run seconds later on a passed ball.

Mrs. John Kennedy Observes Birthday in Hyannis Port

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy observed her 36th birthday today with a quiet celebration with her in-laws at the Kennedy compound of summer homes.

Mrs. Kennedy's first official trip out of the country since the assassination in November, 1963, was to England for Queen Elizabeth's dedication of a John F. Kennedy shrine at Runnymede, where the Magna Carta was signed 750 years ago.

It was the first time since the assassination that the former First Lady celebrated her birthday among her in-laws in Hyannis Port.

Although official mourning for her husband ended last November, Mrs. Kennedy has not stepped up her social life appreciably.

"She is really carrying on in the same way she has been," says Pamela Turnure, formerly her White House press secretary who now runs Mrs. Kennedy's office on Park Avenue which handles the vast volume of mail, the former First Lady still receives.

These days, in addition to contributions to the John F. Kennedy memorial library, invitations which Mrs. Kennedy rarely accepts and the customary run of well-wishing mail, there are hundreds of birthday cards from a public that cannot forget her.

Miss Turnure goes on: "Her life centers around the children, as it always has. She is trying to maintain the same atmosphere for them. She is still working hard on the library. When she goes out, it's generally with groups and theater parties."

Eden Slates Achievement Day Sunday

EDEN—A noon potluck dinner Sunday at the Eden Village park will open the annual West End 4-H Achievement Day program, held in preparation for the Jerome County Fair.

The event is under the sponsorship of the county agents, Grange and 4-H leaders, who extend an invitation to the public.

Purpose of the Achievement Day is to help 4-H members in preparing their projects for the fair. Members are bringing their projects, even though they are only partially completed, or their demonstrations, and 4-H leaders and the county agents will point out areas in which work might be improved.

"Often just a few changes make a big difference in the presentation," stated Mrs. Wanda Nix, Jerome County Extension agent. It is important that all 4-H members bring their projects to Achievement Day, because if something happens to an animal, or if a member is ill, cannot attend the fair, their project already has been shown and will be required to be completed in the record book for sell-off to the judges and the member would be eligible for 4-H camp or Idaho Club Contests awards.

After dinner Sunday, a dress style revue practice will be the highlight of the home economics division. The girls are not required to wear their project garment but will be taught the basic essentials and methods of modeling.

Mrs. Nix, assisted by area 4-H leaders, will judge this division.

Bill Priest, extension agriculture agent for Jerome County, will assist the livestock clubs with showing and clipping their animals, and other improvements that can be made before the fair. Judges for the agriculture projects will be Bill Priest, Bill Brown, Blaine Hall, Walter Shouse and Charles Kimball.

Chairmen for the home economics division are Mrs. Fred Karrow, clothing I, II, III; Mrs. M. E. Welhausen, clothing IV and up; Mrs. Steve Goodwin, foods I, II, III; Mrs. Verl Hinton, foods IV and up, canning and freezing; Mrs. Henry Steinmer, child care, health and safety; Mrs. Walter Shouse and Mrs. Dick Ashcraft, family living, home improvement and home grounds.

Junior leaders, Vicki Hinton, Rhoda Hagan, Donna Hagan, Mrs. Schmetz, and Brent Hardy will assist the senior leaders with arrangements.

West Berlin Airport Said To Be Menace

BERLIN (AP) — Harry Griswold's great pleasure in his 26 years at the Halifax shipyards has been caring for ailing sea gulls. An 8-month-old gull which he named Crystal is the latest beneficiary of his doctoring.

He nursed Crystal back to health after finding the gull on a wharf with a broken leg and smashed ribs.

Christ Campaign Begins in Area

ALBION—"Go Ye" was the theme of a speech given by Otis Gatewood, missionary for Churches of Christ, at the campaign kickoff for the Magic Valley Campaign for Christ.

The campaign began Monday evening in the auditorium of Magic Valley Christian College, Albion, with 166 campaign workers.

Gatewood was introduced by Don Neilson, president of MVCC who was converted to New Testament Christianity by the speaker several years ago in Utah.

Gatewood has been in Russia four times and has a weekly radio program that is broadcast behind the Iron Curtain. He also is organizing a campaign for Christ in Russia during 1970.

West Berlin Airport Said To Be Menace

BERLIN (AP) — The East German regime claims that Tempelhof Airport in the heart of West Berlin is a menace to persons living around the field, a key terminal in the 1948-49 airlift.

The Communists contend that the main runway is only about 5,300 feet long and that, because of the houses crowding around it, the landing angle is unfavorable.

About 40,000 persons live around Tempelhof, about two miles from the Communist wall dividing the city. In the 17 years since the Allied airlift to the Communist-encircled city there has been no major accident. Jet service will be introduced at the airport next spring.

The Communist complaint re-emphasized that Tempelhof is a thorn in East Germany's side. Thousands of East German refugees have been flown to the West from the airport.

The continuous drone of commercial planes that has made Tempelhof the third biggest passenger terminal in Europe is a reassuring sound to the West Berliners.

A section of the field is reserved for the U.S. Air Force and there are about 500 military flights a month.

By agreement of the Big Four World War II Allies, air traffic over Berlin is restricted to U.S., British, French and Soviet planes. The three Western Allies each have one commercial airline serving the city along three corridors linking West Berlin with the Federal Republic of Germany.

The East Germans claim the space over the city is theirs. Recently helicopters with East German markings flew along the city's east-west dividing line, crossing it in some cases.

in Twin Falls sometime this fall.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday noon at the Rogerson Hotel.

Anniversary of New York City Air Disaster Is Recalled

By JEAN HELLER
NEW YORK (AP) — It was just before 10 a.m. exactly 2 years ago that an Army B-25 bomber, groping its way through a fog, smashed into the 78th floor of the Empire State Building in one of New York City's strangest air disasters.

It left 14 persons dead; three were the crew of the aircraft and 11 were in an office in the 1,280-foot tower, the world's tallest building.

The death toll might have been much higher except for the fact that the crash occurred on a Saturday when most of the building was unoccupied. There were only 1,500 in the building at the time compared to the usual 15,000.

But those who lived through it may never forget:

The explosions as the plane

shattered through the stone exterior of the 102-story building;

"Ten people died instantly.

he flaming gasoline spreading through offices and corridors, down elevator shafts and the outside of the building; the screams of those trapped by fire and debris; the skyscraper swaying like a tree in a gale.

One of those who remember is Miss Catherine O'Connor, 57, who was in the headquarters of the War Relief Services, the 79th floor office that bore the brunt of the inferno where the 11 civilians either died or were fatally injured.

"There were 17 of us in the office," Miss O'Connor recalled.

"Suddenly something hit the building. We had no idea what it was. The building shook violently, and five or six seconds later there was an explosion that consumed about three-fourths of the office. From the floor to the ceiling there was nothing but a sheet of orange flame.

"Ten people died instantly.

"The death toll might have been much higher except for the fact that the crash occurred on a Saturday when most of the building was unoccupied. There were only 1,500 in the building at the time compared to the usual 15,000.

But those who lived through it may never forget:

The explosions as the plane

shattered through the stone exterior of the 102-story building;

"Ten people died instantly.

Another person, Joseph Fountain, was right in the middle of that room was."

She continued: "We couldn't figure out why no one came for us. I found out later that the fire chief didn't think anyone could have survived and wouldn't let his men near our office out of fear for their safety.

"But I heard glass breaking and saw a man in a window not far from us stick his head out. I called out to him, 'Where are the firemen?' He told me they were all around. And I said to tell them that there were seven people trapped in our office, one of them badly hurt.

"Then a fire lieutenant volunteered to come in and burst through with his men playing hoses on him. Later he got a medal for bravery."

Miss O'Connor was in and out of hospitals for four years after the crash. Her burns were minor, but she suffered severe smoke poisoning.

"They couldn't get the smoke out of my lungs," she said. "It was kind of gooey from burning oil and adhered to my lungs."

The Army officially attributed the crash to unfavorable flying conditions and misjudgment on the part of the pilot and ground personnel.

The pilot, Lt. Col. William D. Smith Jr., had left Bedford, Mass., with contact-flight rule clearance for La Guardia Field here. On reaching the New York area, Smith made contact with the control tower at La Guardia and asked permission to go on to Newark, N.J., under contact-flight rules.

Smith was informed by the tower that conditions at Newark were less than minimum for contact flight, but when Smith replied he nonetheless preferred going to Newark, he was given permission to do so, providing he could maintain three miles forward visibility.

Two minutes later, the bomber plowed into the building. The investigation report said Smith should have been denied permission to proceed to Newark.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Tavern operator Lawrence Hay, 49, was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined court costs for turning a water hose on an ice cream truck driver who parked in front of his store.

Fred Graeter, 24, the ice cream man, told police court Judge George S. Heitzer that Hay first had objected to his music box, then to fumes from his truck, and finally to his parking in front of the store.

The parade was led by Boy Scouts, Terrell Hurst, Stephen Preston, and David Darrington, carrying the American and Boy Scout flags. Following were Cub Scouts from the four dens in Declo.

Mrs. Nalon Taylor, parade chairman, expressed appreciation to Mrs. Jones, Leonard, Mrs. Ray Massinger and Mrs. Jay Perry who were the judges.

Winners of the parade entries were floats of Declo Junior Feeders 4-H Club, first, and Lamb Lovers 4-H Club, second; walking floats, Norman Smyers' children float, Cub Scout Den Three, second, and Doug Darrington and Joe Schmidt, third.

Games and relay races were under the direction of Mrs. Melvin Darrington, assisted by Mrs. Gale Gillette, Mrs. Gerald Malony and Mrs. Earl Hurst.

Nalon Taylor, assisted by Jay Kidd, was in charge of the greased pig scramble. Winners of the girls contest were Janet Matthews, under 7-years; Brett Kelsey, 7 to 11 years; Johnny Martinis, 11 to 14 years. Taylor expressed his thanks to Burley Livestock, Valley Livestock and Simplot Soilbuilders for donating the weaner pigs for the race.

Local businesses donating for the parade and races cash prizes were Chet's Bar, Min's Cafe, Gillette's Market, Anderson Market, Thornton Trucking, Morgan and Lindsay's, Leonard's Service, Lynch's Service Station, Mini-Cassia Dairy, and the Village Board of Declo.

Romania Keeps Communist Theory Without Kremlin Control

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—Romania is scoring points in its policy of maintaining national communism free of Kremlin control.

When Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet party chief, endorsed the policy before the Romanian party congress, he formally put an end to Soviet efforts to make Romania toe the Moscow line.

The action left the impression that such countries as Poland,

Hungary and Bulgaria also might break loose and get away with it.

The Soviet endorsement was a personal triumph for Romanian party leader Nicolae Ceausescu, 47, a Communist intellectual. He was the right-hand man of former president and party leader Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej. When Gheorghiu-Dej died last March, Ceausescu took his place at the head of the party.

The Communist party statutes and the national constitution have been amended to stress Romania's sovereignty and independence. All reference to the "guiding role" of the Soviet party has been removed and the party organization has been remodeled on the Yugoslav pattern.

Compulsory military service has been cut from two years to 16 months. The army command has been purged of its Moscow-trained leadership. A relatively young and hitherto inconspicuous officer, Gen. Ion Gheorghe, was promoted over the heads of higher-ranking men to chief of staff and deputy defense minister.

Gheorghe is close to Ceausescu.

Unlike some of his colleagues, he resisted when Moscow proposed integration of the military commands of the Warsaw Pact nations.

Unlike Yugoslavia, Romania remains a member of the Warsaw Pact, the Communist counterpart of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But no longer can the Russians count on the Romanian army in all circumstances.

The constitution says Romania will go to war alongside its allies only when a situation has arisen for which an obligation to declare a state of war has been laid down.

Astronauts En Route to Planets May Stop for Gas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Within 15 years or so, astronauts headed outward for the planets Mars or Venus may stop by orbiting "service stations" to gas up for the long trip, a U.S. space engineer suggested.

L. I. Morgan, staff engineer for Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif., said space-going tankers carrying huge quantities of rocket fuel "may be a requirement of future interplanetary missions." Morgan put his idea before more than 5,000 U.S. scientists and engineers at today's second session of the four-day annual meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA).

Earlier, the group was told that, in the race to shoot heavyweight satellites into earth orbit, the United States can still do better than the Soviet Union by at least 140 pounds.

Morgan said orbiting tankers, or service stations, filled with propellants such as liquid oxygen, hydrogen and high-grade kerosene "appears to be a feasible method of operation."

Under this arrangement, astronauts could use their initial fuel supply simply to get into orbit. There, they would gas up again for the hop across interplanetary space. The technique

HAZELTON—A demonstration of how to store woolen clothing was given by Gail Welhausen, when the Explorade 4-H Club met at the M. F. Welhausen home.

The 4-H pledge was led by Jeri Waller and Wilda Metts led the pledge of allegiance. Helen Joa, vice president, conducted the business meeting in the absence of president DiAnne Metts. Plans were made for the practice judging to be held at the Hazelton Presbyterian Church.

The next meeting will be at the home of Jeri Waller.
